

Call a spade a spade!

Use an out-and-out dentifrice for your teeth. This is common sense. Pebecco is an "out-and-out" dentifrice. It boasts no other claims. It's content with being the 100% effective dentifrice.

Pebecco Tooth Paste

overcomes "Acid-Mouth." Mouth acids of most people, if left alone, gradually break down the outside protecting enamel of the teeth. The soft inside tooth then becomes quick prey to decay germs. Use Pebecco Tooth Paste and mouth acids will not have a chance.

Nor is this all Pebecco will do. It keeps teeth white, sound and healthy. It's a real dentifrice. Try it—Pebecco your teeth.

WILLIAM HAWTREY, STRICKEN IN A CAR, DIES IN BELLEVUE

Leading Actor and Brother of Charles Hawtreys, the English Comedian.

William Hawtreys, actor, brother of Charles Hawtreys, the noted English comedian, died early to-day in the New York Hospital after he had been taken ill on a thirty-fourth street car. He was fifty-seven years old. With a niece, Mrs. Jamison, with whom he lived at No. 170 West Seventy-fifth street, and a friend, Mrs. Kent, Mr. Hawtreys took a car at Thirty-fourth street and Lexington avenue a little before 10 o'clock last night. While he was waiting to get transfers from the conductor he collapsed. He was lifted to a seat, but when it had become apparent that his condition was serious, the car was stopped and an ambulance summoned.

Mrs. Jamison sent word to the Lambs Club, where Mr. Hawtreys had many friends. Several club members went to the hospital and remained with him to the end. Heart disease caused his death, the physicians said.

A cable message announcing his death was at once sent to Charles Hawtreys, who is playing in London, and friends here are making arrangements for the funeral.

Mr. Hawtreys came to this country about twenty years ago and his first appearance was at the Garrick Theatre in "Caliban" made him popular with playgoers. Later he achieved great success as the star in "Dear Old Dad." Whether he was appearing in plays that were successful or not, the critics always picked out his portrayals as finely finished and convincing.

Among other plays in which he was seen in New York were "The Two Mr. Weatherboys," "The Old Firm," "The First of Fate," "The Ambitious Miss Alcott," and "An Englishman's Home." Lately he has been touring in vaudeville.

TYPHOID FOUND ON SHIP; IMMIGRANTS QUARANTINED

Two Hundred and Fifty Passengers on the Roma Sent to Hoffman Island.

Two hundred and fifty immigrants, Turks and Syrians, were removed from the Fabre liner Roma to-day and transferred to Hoffman Island for observation. Typhus fever broke out on the ship during the voyage from Marseilles. She touched first at Providence and was detained there. Then it was decided that the situation could be handled better here.

Thirty persons on board have high temperatures. They were placed in the isolation hospital. The other passengers will be held for observation fourteen days and the vessel will be disinfected.

It is a wonderful combination of our new scale WALTERS Piano and the player mechanism is of unusual excellence. The perfect case with which it can be operated is truly marvellous. A child can play it without being fatigued. The player action is a marvel of mechanical ingenuity, containing a perfected system of double valves, and the tubings are of metal, which is more durable than rubber and not affected by extreme climatic conditions. The motor works with the utmost ease and precision. The expression devices are unique and make it possible to produce the most delicate shadings of tone.

Among the many valuable patented devices used exclusively in our new 1914 Style Walters Player Piano we call your attention to the most ingenious invention known to player piano construction.

"THE TRI-SOLO MELODIST"

With the aid of this marvellous expression device, you can bring out the melody of any composition so that it rings out clearly and distinctly like a voice of a singer above a subdued accompaniment. It enables you to give almost human interpretation to the music your fancy dictates; in fact, everybody can now play the piano like a skilled artist.
